

Anyone who thought that torture was not a current issue got a rude awakening this week when the CIA called for criminal prosecutions of Senate staffers, because they read documents that the CIA had itself provided them access to.

Release the 6,300 page Senate Report . . . release the CIA's own Panetta investigation . . . both of which conclude that torture yielded NO actionable intelligence of any value.

Oh . . . did we mention it was also grossly counterproductive and an utter disgrace of us all?

And let the American people finally know what atrocities were committed so gratuitously in our names.
